Muhammad Ali was a professional boxer renowned worldwide and regarded as one of the greatest heavyweight boxers of all time. He debuted professionally in 1960 and held multiple world heavyweight championships, retiring from boxing in 1981 with a record of 56 wins and 5 losses. Ali's career was marked by historic bouts, including victories over Sonny Liston, George Foreman, and Joe Frazier, and his impact extended far beyond sports as a global icon and advocate for civil rights.

So he was a personal trainer and boxer too?

Muhammad Ali was primarily famous as a legendary professional boxer, not as a certified personal trainer. The certificate image provided refers to "Mohammed Ali" as an International Certified Personal Trainer, but this likely relates to a different individual with the same name—it is important to note that the global icon Muhammad Ali is not documented to have been a professional personal trainer. He was celebrated for his achievements in boxing and his role as a cultural leader, not for holding personal training certifications or serving clients in that capacity.
